

WINDU

For immediate release

fbudi-

Jakarta, October 2018

8 Years has passed.

The air is now too hot.

Everything is in excess they become meaningless.

I want clothes that are breathable; clothes that make the wearer feel calm in this upsetting time; clothes through which tradition can progress, and which do not burden this earth.

I miss the trees, the wind, the time.

Silk, indigo-dyed in Flores; cotton, woven manually in Pekalongan; rayon, dyed naturally in Bandung; all these and other fabric are made into clothes by draping them directly on the body. Some material are taken from fbudi private collection, some from the archive, and some are new. The clothes are designed to harmonize with body movement and to leave fabric waste as little as possible.

fbudi WINDU presentation takes place on the catwalk of Jakarta Fashion Week 2019 on the Sunday evening of 21st October 2018. Seventy eight percent of the creation presented are zero-waste design. In complementing all sixteen looks, we asked jewellery designer AMSTAMB and shoe designer Christin Wu to create designs. This resulted in distinctive silver jewelleryes and feminine woven shoes respectively.
